- Contracts are typically written on three-year terms with annual uplift provisions linked to a published inflation index, subject to a stated cap. Renewal is by default rather than by re-tender.
- Adoption in the Benelux region is judged to lag the United Kingdom by approximately three years, which management presents as a timing opportunity rather than a structural difference.
- Engineering, product and customer success functions are organised into cross-functional teams aligned to customer segments rather than to components of the platform.
- The largest single account contributes £2.1m of annual recurring revenue and has been a customer since 2018. No other account exceeds six per cent of the total.
- The company raised £6.5m in a Series A round in 2019 and a further £14.0m in 2022. Both rounds were led by institutional investors who remain on the register.
- The company maintains a delegated authority matrix reviewed annually by the board.

- Board meetings are held monthly against a standing agenda. Committee structures are limited to an audit committee.
- Industry consolidation among brokers has produced larger groups with more complex portfolios, which management identifies as the primary structural driver of demand.
- Onboarding a new customer takes six to ten weeks, of which the majority is spent on data mapping rather than on configuration.
- The company sells directly in its home market and through two referral partners in continental Europe. Partner-originated business carries a commission recognised over the life of the contract.
- Deferred income at the most recent year end stood at £5.8m, reflecting the annual-in-advance billing convention applied to the majority of subscription contracts.
- The company maintains a delegated authority matrix reviewed annually by the board.

Appendix K — Historical Funding History

- Contracts are typically written on three-year terms with annual uplift provisions linked to a published inflation index, subject to a stated cap. Renewal is by default rather than by re-tender.
- Deferred income at the most recent year end stood at £5.8m, reflecting the annual-in-advance billing convention applied to the majority of subscription contracts.
- The company maintains a delegated authority matrix reviewed annually by the board.
- Management sizes the addressable market at £4.2bn, comprising commercial broking technology spend across the United Kingdom, Ireland and the Benelux region.
- Onboarding a new customer takes six to ten weeks, of which the majority is spent on data mapping rather than on configuration.
- Sales cycles average four to seven months for new logos and under sixty days for expansion within an existing group.
